Why did the Peacock stand on the Ragged Robin?

NATURECARE
CUT-OUT PICTURES

Make your own super 3D Naturecare pictures with Weetabix. There are six to collect—three of butterflies, three of wild flowers.

RAGGED ROBIN
Found in British Wetlands. Clove scented and attractive to bees and moths.

PEACOCK
Found in gardens between Spring and Autumn. Hibernates in hollow trees and outbuildings.

DID YOU KNOW?

Since botanical recording began in the 17th century, 20 native plant species have become extinct in Great Britain.

As you can see, the Peacock is a butterfly, Ragged Robin is a flower.

So obviously the butterfly needed somewhere to rest!

With Weetabix you'll now find out more about the countryside and have fun too.

There are six beautiful cut-out Naturecare pictures for you to collect and make. And loads of fascinating facts about British wildlife.

You'll find them all on the special Weetabix Naturecare packs.

Look out for them. And while you're eating your favourite breakfast cereal, see what part you can play in conserving some of the natural beauty of British wildlife.
